IN FOCUS: Utilising a One Health Approach for Health Security

Severe Acute Respiratory Syndrome Coronavirus 2 (SARS-CoV-2), the virus causing COVID-19 is zoonotic, meaning that it is spread between animals and humans. The COVID-19 pandemic has highlighted the importance of utilising a One-Health (OH) approach in addressing the several emerging and re-emerging infectious diseases caused by human interaction with animals and environment. The concept of OH approach integrates interventions across the animal, human and environmental sectors to detect, prevent and respond to infectious disease threats.

In Nigeria, OH is a collaboration between the Federal Ministries of Health, Agriculture, and Rural Development and Environment with a shared vision to strengthen health security. Through this collaborative effort, Nigeria has made significant progress in addressing public health challenges. The Nigeria Centre for Disease Control and Prevention (NCDC) has continued to deploy OH-oriented rapid response teams to support states in community sensitisation, surveillance for and response to COVID-19 and other zoonotic diseases.

In 2019, stakeholders from the sectors jointly launched a National One Health Strategic Plan (2019-2023) for the implementation of the OH strategy in Nigeria. This institutionalises the approach at all levels and fosters increased awareness among Nigerians. However, there is a need for the strengthening of core OH activities including coordination and knowledge management, antimicrobial resistance surveillance, laboratory capacity, joint prevention, and response, as well as training and research.

As part of efforts to strengthen OH in Nigeria, the Nigeria OH Awareness Conference is holding virtually on 13th July, 2022 with the theme: A call to action towards building a OH community-based network. The conference will be hosted by NCDC with support from US State Department BEP through GIS will bring together One Health stakeholders from across the world.

The conference will showcase Nigeria's progress and lessons learned in the utilisation of the OH approach for public health events. It will also facilitate discussions for future OH activities including building a OH community-based network in Nigeria. We encourage the public, academia, health workers, and others to attend the Nigeria OH Awareness Conference by registering here.

We commend the efforts of Federal Ministries, Departments and Agencies, State Ministries of Health, and multidisciplinary experts in the implementation of OH in Nigeria.
